

World on a Plate: Street Food Delights

Level: b1 | By the end of the session, you will be able to describe street food, share your experiences, and order from a street vendor confidently.

Before we start

Key language:

stall, vendor, snack

- Have you ever tried street food? What did you eat?
- What is your favorite street food dish from your country or another country?

Vocabulary boost

Tasty Terms

- appetizing - looking or smelling very good to eat
- hearty - wholesome, filling, and satisfying (often used for warm, substantial meals)
- Which street foods in your city look the most appetizing? Describe them.
- Would you prefer a hearty meal or a light snack when you buy street food? Why?

Share your experience

Share your experience

- Tell me about a time you tried a new street food while traveling. How did you feel?
- In your city, what is the most popular street food and why do people love it?

Discover and learn

Discover and learn

- Exercise 1: Describing Food Adjectives - Look at the PDF page and match the adjectives (spicy, tangy, creamy, crunchy) to the food descriptions. Then, describe a street food you know using two of these adjectives.
- Exercise 2: Ordering at a Stall - Complete the dialogue with phrases from the box (e.g., 'I'd like...', 'How much is...?', 'Can I have... with extra...?'). Then, practice the dialogue with a partner.

Spotlight

Spotlight: Tips for Eating Street Food Safely

1. Look for stalls with long queues – a sign of fresh and popular food.
2. Observe the vendor's hygiene: clean hands, covered hair, and fresh ingredients.
3. Trust your nose: if something smells bad, avoid it!

Your turn

Your turn: Street Food Market Roleplay

- Scenario 1: You are a street food vendor selling your specialty. Persuade a customer (your partner) to try it. Describe the dish, its ingredients, and why it's the best in the market. Your partner will ask about price, spiciness, etc.
- Scenario 2: You and your friend are at a night market. Decide on two street foods to share. Discuss your preferences, compare dishes, and then role-play ordering from a vendor.
